Response to Amendment

Amendment filed on 8/5/2008 has been considered and entered.

Amendment of title is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kimura et al. (JP 09-045275; of record).

Regarding claim 1, Kimura et al. disclose an electron multiplier (Figs 1 & 2) comprising a dynode unit (500 of Fig 8) having a plurality of dynodes positioned in a mutually-insulated, layered state in multiple stages and disposed in a vacuum container; a plurality of insulating plates (ceramic ring 41), insulating the respective dynodes from each other; and columns (200 of Fig 8), erected on a stem plate (8), making up the vacuum container, so as to fit or engage with the respective dynodes and the respective insulating plates, wherein the respective dynodes and the respective insulating plates are overlapped alternately (see Fig 8; see Paragraphs 24-28 of English translation) in the state of being fitted or engaged with the columns and the respective dynodes and the respective insulating spacers are supported integrally on the columns (200) by means of arresting members (202 and 205) being fixed to the tip portion of the columns (see Fig 8, paragraph 34).

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 8/5/2008 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant contends that “column 9 pierces and retains each component and mounts each retention component on the stem in a manner having a completely different structure than any structure disclosed in Kimura.

In response examiner respectfully presents column 200 of Kimura satisfies all the claimed limitations cited in claim 1. Further it is not clear why applicant compared lead pin 7 of Kimura with column 9 of instant application.

Further applicants respectfully submit that a rear edge of the column is mounted on the stem and an arresting member is attached to the top”.

It is noted that the features upon which applicant relies (i.e. a rear edge of the column is mounted on the stem) are not recited in the rejected claim(s). Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir.1993).

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
